

University of Toronto Studies: Philosophy, Volume 2, |

This is the second volume in Oxford Studies in Experimental Philosophy, a series with the aim of providing a venue for publishing work in this emerging field. Experimental philosophy is a new movement that seeks to use empirical techniques to illuminate some of the oldest issues in philosophy. Anthony Robert Booth is Senior Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Sussex, UK. He also works for Trusting Banks, a NWO (Dutch Science Foundation) funded collaboration between the Universities of Groningen, the Netherlands, and Cambridge, UK. In this book, Stephen Bush explores how these themes connect to James' philosophy of religion, his moral thought, his epistemology, his psychology, and his metaphysics. Philosophy in the Modern World. A New History of Western Philosophy, Volume 4. Anthony Kenny, University of Oxford. Thomas Hurka, University of Toronto. An illuminating look at the best things in life—what they are, how to get them, and how they help make our lives more meaningful. Philosophy in Action I. American Philosophical Association conference in 2009. The format of the book is a basic dialogue through essays between the two scholars; it opens with Plantinga's argument that Christianity is compatible with evolution. Next, Dennett argues that they are incompatible, followed by a reply from Plantinga and a final reply from Dennett. The conclusion contains joint responses from both sides of the argument.
