Publisher. The Complete Beatles Songs: The Stories Behind Every Track Written by the Fab Four. Steve Turner. 4.8 out of 5 stars 244. Reading this book is as close as you will ever come to having the Beatles over for lunch some day and getting the chance to pick their brains over BLTs. This is because the contents of the book are mostly from the Beatles themselves; this book is not just some blowhards interpretation of how Lucy in the Sky stands for LSD.

The second song "Everybody"™s Had a Hard Year"™ was John"™s own self-reflective composition and was a litany where every line began with the word "everybody"™. The main guitar riff of this track came from a January 14th, 1969 demo entitled "Watching Rainbows". This had been developed and then abandoned during the infamous "Get Back"™ sessions at Twickenham Studios. The Beatles took the song to Liverpool the next day, where they played it for Paul"™s father, who convinced them that it was a "nice little tune". Both Paul and John took turns to write the song " making it one of the only Beatles hits they built from scratch together, and using words such as "I"™, "me"™, or "you"™ as a way of making the song, according to McCartney, "every direct and personal".
