

Restorative Justice and Violence Against Women | 9780195335484 | 312 pages | Oxford University Press, USA, 2009 | James Ptacek | 2009

Violence against women (VAW) has slowly found its place in many international policies and conventions. The objectives, enforceability and foci of Sample PDF. Reconciling Restorative Justice with the Law for Violence Against Women in Europe: A Scheme of Structured and Unstructured Models. $37.50. Chapter 8. Start by marking "Restorative Justice and Violence Against Women (Interpersonal Violence)" as Want to Read: Want to Read savingâ€¦ Want to Read. This path-breaking book examines new justice practices for victims that are being used in the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. These informal, dialogue-based practices, referred to as "restorative justice," seek to decrease the role of the state in responding to crime, and increase the involvement of communities in meeting the needs of victims and offenders. Start your review of Restorative Justice and Violence Against Women (Interpersonal Violence). Write a review. Nov 23, 2019 Vileana rated it it was amazing. Restorative justice is an approach to justice in which one of the responses to a crime is to organize a meeting between the victim and the offender, sometimes with representatives of the wider community. The goal is for them to share their experience of what happened, to discuss who was harmed by the crime and how, and to create a consensus for what the offender can do to repair the harm from the offense. This may include a payment of money given from the offender to the victim, apologies and other The Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) was introduced in the United States Congress in January 1991 by Senator Joseph Biden (b.1942) of Delaware. The bill was enacted as part of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act and was signed into law by former president Bill Clinton (b.1946) in September 1994. VAWA allows people who have been subjected to acts of violence because of their gender to pursue their victimizers in a federal court for sex discrimination. Among the provisions outlined in VAWA are the creation of a national domestic violence hotline, increasing the funding for the she Sell one like this. Restorative Justice and Violence Against Women - 9780195335484. Condition: New. Â£38.58. This path-breaking book examines new justice practices for victims that are being used in the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand." See allItem description. About this item.