

About The Book

When I started writing this book in 1992, posting it in a Yahoo Briefcase was not one of my goals! But the journey has been much slower and much more complicated than I envisioned. As a result, I conceded some time ago that this book is unlikely to ever appear as a hard-bound text in a campus bookstore.

Recently, I have been thinking of alternative ways to publish it. Although I would like to make money for the time I have spent on this, and for whatever creativity exists here, that is not why I started writing. So I have decided to make it freely available on the internet to interested students and faculty. After all, you are the people who I wanted to reach when I started this project.

As you begin to explore the briefcase, you will see that I currently have about one-third of the book posted. I will post additional chapters as I finish editing them. The text is neat and tidy in pdf format, but I apologize for the figures. Most of them are gif files of scanned photocopies of reduced photocopies of hand-drawn originals!

I hope that sooner rather than later I can make all of the figures look like those in the pdf figure file for Carbohydrates (Chapter 20). I could have waited to do this post until I had everything looking good, but I wanted to get this started so here is what I have.

These files are for your personal use. This is my intellectual property, so don't sell it to anyone, nor copy it and paste it into another text book or term paper! Since anyone can download it, don't electronically transmit it to anyone.

Thanks so much for being interested in what I have done. Send me comments if you wish! And certainly, please let me know about factual errors! Take a minute to read "About Me", and check out "Detailed Contents" that includes both what's in the posted chapters, as well as those not yet posted!
