To see Glacier National Park from a different angle, North Fork Recreation Rentals has kayaks and other nonmotorized river rafts for rent just outside the park in Polebridge, Montana, in the Flathead Lake watershed area. There's even a train that runs through the park. Amtrak's Empire Builder is a 2.5 hour train ride that departs from Whitefish, Montana every morning at 7:41 a.m. and makes stops in West Glacier, Essex and East Glacier Park before returning in the evening. Glacier National Park, in northwestern Montana along the Canadian border, covers one million acres across several ecosystems (ranging from prairie to tundra) and the Continental Divide. Also known as the "Crown of the Continent", this pristine environment is home to more than 1,000 different species of plants and hundreds of species of animals. More recently in the 1800s, the Blackfoot Indians lived in the eastern part of what is now the park, while the Flathead Indians lived in the western area (today they have reservations just outside the park boundaries). As explorers, such as Lewis and Clark, pushed west, interest in this area grew, and it became known for both its beauty and hunting opportunities. Glacier National Park Travel Guide.
