VICTIMISED SOCIETY IV

JITENDER KOHLI

like vectors, they fight for remnants

A SURYA PRAKASH

Your COLUMN

Respect nature

Today, we are nothing but the stewards of the earth. The onus lies on us to warn about the possible dangers we are causing to nature. When we exploit an animal, we kill it, but when we exploit nature, we kill ourselves. When we destroy the habitat of an animal, we kill it, but when we destroy the eco-system, we kill ourselves.

Dear Reader,

Re: Respect nature

The Government - both international and national - has always maintained a stance that it is committed to the protection of nature and the environment. It has taken several initiatives to promote the concept of respect for nature and the environment. However, the implementation of these initiatives is lacking. It is time that we all come together to protect our environment and respect nature.

Dear Editor,

Re: Respect nature

The concept of respect for nature and the environment is not just a responsibility of the Government, but it is everyone's responsibility. We should all do our bit to protect the environment and respect nature.

Dear Editor,

Re: Respect nature

The Government should take stricter measures to ensure that industries do not pollute the environment. We should all be aware of the importance of respecting nature and the environment and take steps to protect it.

Dear Reader,

Re: Respect nature

It is a sad fact that we are losing our biodiversity at an alarming rate. The Government should take immediate action to protect our environment and respect nature.

Dear Editor,

Re: Respect nature

The concept of respect for nature and the environment is not just a responsibility of the Government, but it is everyone's responsibility. We should all do our bit to protect the environment and respect nature.

Dear Reader,

Re: Respect nature

It is a sad fact that we are losing our biodiversity at an alarming rate. The Government should take immediate action to protect our environment and respect nature.
Today, before the UN General Assembly, Malala delivered a speech of substance, power, and grace. This speech deserves to be heard. This speech deserves to be read. Furthermore, the mantle of a woman who had spoken at the UN, and would have been known by many of those in the audience. Indeed a mantle of power, yet contrasted beautifully against the phrase “dear brothers and sisters”, which appears in almost every paragraph, and reminds the audience of whom Malala ultimately represents: the young. A triple trilogy of power. A similar evocation of power appears later, in a trio of trilogies Malala Yousafzai is a Pakistani activist, student, UN messenger of peace and the youngest Nobel Laureate. As co-founder of Malala Fund, she is building a world where every girl can learn and lead without fear. New York, New York. Bismillah hir rahman ir rahim. In the name of God, the most merciful, the most beneficent. Young girls have to do domestic child labour and are forced to get married at early age. Poverty, ignorance, injustice, racism and the deprivation of basic rights are the main problems faced by both men and women. Dear fellows, today I am focusing on women's rights and girls' education because they are suffering the most. Malala delivered this address on education to the United Nations Youth Assembly on 'Malala Day', her 16th birthday. Education campaigner Malala Yousafzai delivers a speech to the UN on her sixteenth birthday, Malala Day Photograph: Stan Honda/AFP/Getty Images. Education campaigner Malala Yousafzai delivers a speech to the UN on her sixteenth birthday, Malala Day Photograph: Stan Honda/AFP/Getty Images. Fri 12 Jul 2013 17.15 BST. This is a transcription of the speech that Malala Yousafzai gave to the United Nations on 12 July 2013, the date of her 16th birthday and "Malala Day". As our little girls defy the TTP in Swat and choose wisdom over supression, Malala speaks at the UN. Listening to her speech was not only moving, but inspiring. I believe, it's because of the likes of her, the young bright minds of our young nation, I keep hope that just might one day we could become 'one of the greatest nations of the world', as envisioned by our father M.Ali Jinnah. I believe that, in the time of despair and chaos, when our own blood washes our streets, the message of education and wisdom coming from our little sister at the UN, with the whole world listening becomes even more important and urgent. Let's just for once say, that our nation shall not fear the ideology of extremist Kharijites and our rights and freedoms shall not b