The boy from over there. 1988, Houghton Mifflin. in English. He was not a very good boy. He often fell asleep watching the sheep, and he also told lies. Once upon a time there lived a little boy. His name was Bill. Bill didn't live in town. The people who lived there often said, "That boy will come to a bad end". One day Bill wanted to play a practical joke on the people. He ran down the hill and cried, "Wolf! "Over There" is a 1917 song written by George M. Cohan that was popular with the United States military and public during both world wars. It is a patriotic song designed to galvanize American young men to enlist and fight the "Hun". The song is best remembered for a line in its chorus: "The Yanks are coming.". It has been revived on various occasions during and after World War II. It was not heavily used during the Vietnam War, but has been used since the September 11 terrorist attacks.
